

Architects & Engineers

PROFESSIONAL LIABILITY

Like other professionals who provide a service, architects and engineers are at risk for liability exposure. An unintended error or omission while performing the job could compromise company data, result in faulty technology, or even pollute the environment. Due to perceived —or real— negligence (as a result of insured services), a dissatisfied customer or third-party could pursue litigation, putting a firm's finances and reputation in danger. Our Architects & Engineers Professional Liability coverage can help by providing peace of mind about these uncertain circumstances, allowing our clients to stay focused on what they do best!
